

Midstate Siding and Window Company, founded in 1979 by Michael Deushane, worked with home owners Tom and Maria Orwig to maintain the Victorian style of their home. Special color combinations were utilized to enhance the style.

Midstate Siding and Window wins national workmanship award

Midstate Siding and Window Company was founded in 1979 by Michael Deushane, with offices in East Peoria and Decatur. They concentrate on all types and styles of replacement windows and remnant siding products.

The business says its quality is second to none, and Midstate has won a national award for its workmanship. The business has a full time service department and a full time quality control department.

Their business is concentrated in central Illinois in a 100 mile radius of Peoria.

They continue to train their staff through MFG sponsored training seminars and weekly customer awareness meetings.

Midstate has completed hundreds of jobs in Fulton County, including one for Maria Orwig. In a testimonial letter, Orwig said:

"Your company has been siding our home the past couple of weeks. Our home is a very large Victorian house and we were concerned about it losing its unique look when we opted for siding. We requested a variety of contrasting color combinations in order to enhance the Victorian style. We had some ideas but really didn't know exactly how and where to apply these colors for the best effect. Mark Doerr and Gary Brannan were very helpful. They came up with different ideas than we had originally planned and the house looks terrific. They brainstormed and kept in contact with us with ideas they had come up with and checked with us often to verify what we wanted before going ahead in different areas. I cannot thank these men enough. It has been a great pleasure to have such conscientious, thoughtful people to work with."

Deushane's roots are in Fulton County, and his parents and grandparents were life long Fulton County residents.
